ETIQUETTE OF THE HAT.

Some Anecdotes About a Pleading Quotum of Society.

How a Gentleman Should Manipulate His Hat When Meeting Lady Acquaintances—The Difference Between a Well-Bred Man and a Boor.

A woman's role is to seem utterly oblivious of her bouquet after the parting look into the mirror establishes the pleasing truth that it is carried safely and becomingly, remarks a writer in Once a Week. The man who forgets what he has upon his head is a boor, incorrigibly absent-minded. The right manipulation of his hat is like spelling—it must be learned early and thoroughly, or it comes hard, and is always a skittish possession.

A mother habitually indulgent to her children, called her eldest born—a boy of ten—back when he had left her on a street corner. The lad covered under the severity of eye and accent.

"Never dare leave me in the streets again without raising your hat!" she said. "It is a token of respect just owe to every woman, and never forget that your mother is a woman!"

The reprover was doubled-barbed. Association with mothers and sisters is excellent practice in an exercise that can not be absent without injury to him who takes the liberty. "The fellow who nods a cavalier welcome or farewell to his sister at the window, or in the street, will, with the most gallant intentions, some day, in a fit of abstraction, or when hurried by business into forgetfulness of his company manners, nod as carelessly to some other fellow's sister, and score a point in favor of the rival whose hand, from the force of early habit and long usage, moves involuntarily toward the cap brim at the approach of any woman whose face is familiar to him.

The mother who carries the two sentences and the import thereof upon the mind of her boy builds so much better than she knows as to merit the gratitude of her sex. The bob or duck of the covered head which salutes a comrade of his gender is barely pardonable, even in America. Students in foreign universities would be sent to Coventry were they to practice it on meeting in the corridor or thoroughfare. Equally general in the older lands, where external courtesies rank higher than with us, is the custom of doffing the hat on passing a lady—stranger or acquaintance—on the staircase or in the halls of hotel or other public building. In witnessing that effect of the neglect of the gracious little ceremony in the country that furnishes the best husbands in the world it is important to restrain the regretful sigh:

"These things ought ye to have done, and not leave the other undone!"

The undoffed hat is carried to a disgraceful excess as we descend the social scale. The lower we go the more scanty is the observance of the etiquette and moralities of the hat, until we are forced to consider the important adjunct to the out-door toilet as an almost infallible barometer of breeding. Respect of the rules regulating its management in refined circles is the last sign of better days and better manners with which the decayed gentleman parts. When his hand forgets the way to the hat brim, he is very near the foot of the hill. What a slangy lad once called in my hearing "the hat trick" is likewise that which the self-made man of plebeian extraction is slowest to learn. I have seen millionaires forget to remove their hats in superb drawing rooms.

One of the most mortifying experiences of my earlier married life was the visit to our country house of a distinguished man than whom the State held none abler of his profession. We had invited several friends to meet him, and the dinner given in his honor passed off smoothly. The lion roared in a perfectly satisfactory manner, winning universal admiration. Coffee was served on the veranda, and the evening being cool, the great man called for his hat. He might have asked permission from the women present to assume it, we thought, but orators must preserve their vocal cords from rust. As the chilliness increased, we adjourned to the library, where a fire had been kindled. There, in the assembled presence of our choicest neighbors, the great man wore his hat until the hour of separation! The recollection is an agony. The inference, borne out by subsequent discoveries, was inevitable. He was a commoner of the commonality and vulgar in grain. It ought to have been impossible for him to commit such a breach of good manners in any circumstances. The varnish of surface and unaccustomed courtesy, like other cheap and patent dressing, requires frequent renewal and can not be warranted to wear.

As a grateful contractor, I offer another authentic incident. A true gentleman, driving through the country with his wife and children, stopped at small farm house to inquire the way. A child on the front seat of the carriage had a view of him as he knocked at the door.

"Papa's talking to a lady," chirped the little one. "I can't see her, but I know because he took off his hat when the door opened, and is standing with his hat in his hand."

"The lady" followed him to the steps as he returned to the carriage. Her elbows were rolled up to her shoulders; she wore a shabby calico gown without a collar. Her hair was unkempt, her arms and hands dripped with sweat. Her parting directions were shrilly nasal and ungrammatical. The man who appeared beside her as a prince beside a serf, stood with his noble head bowed as in a royal presence.

"She was a woman, my boy; and a gentleman is always a gentleman for his own sake."

"Men can do no end of pretty things with their hats," sighed a belle to me. "The tactics of that useful article (masculine) are a science—one of the arts. Yet two-thirds of them don't half appreciate their privileges in that line, or suspect their possibilities. I saw a man who calls himself a gentleman kiss his betrothed the other day, with his hat set as immovably on his head as if it had grown there with his growth and strengthened with his strength!"

Fancy a condition of mind and body that could make such a thing practicable in a Christian land, and in the nineteenth century.

Barrels Made by Machine.

The cooper trade threatens to be lost as if modern science continues its inroads upon it. A Philadelphia man has just invented a machine that, with the help of six men, will turn out as many barrels in a day as sixty men can make. The machine has been successfully operated, and coopers are taking a good deal of interest in it. If it proves financially successful, it will probably revolutionize the cooper's trade.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE kindly manner in which those in Washoe county who have been dealing in lottery tickets accept the verdict of the people is worthy the greatest commendation. The disposition, so far as we can learn, among them, is to recognize that there is an anti-lottery law in this State, and that the intent of it is to protect the people, and in its observance the best interests of all will be subserved. There could be quite a revenue received from the Louisiana Lottery as percentage for the sale of tickets in the future as in the past, were it not for their deference to law and its behest when its enforcement is proclaimed by an intelligent and law-abiding people. While the late election may be considered by many as heaping an unnecessary expense on the tax-payers, it in the end may be money well expended; this will certainly be true if the trade in lottery tickets is stopped. The many thousand dollars that went out annually will be invested in this or that calling, which will add not only to the State industries and prosperity, but will soon place in the treasuries of the counties and State additional revenue that will soon replace the costs that have been made in getting the voice of the people on the lottery issue. If the lottery dealers elsewhere are as loyal to themselves as those in Washoe county, the Louisiana lottery scheme will receive but a small revenue from Nevada.

SOME time ago quite a sensation was caused among the farmers by the announcement that they could not use butter color without getting into the same box with the makers of oleomargarine. But the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has since promulgated a decision to the effect that there is nothing in the revenue laws which interferes in any way with the use of coloring matter for butter.

We don't look for a "clean sweep," or anything of that nature, from the new administration. But we do expect that a number of inefficient people connected with the railway mail service, who have been put in the place of efficient men removed, will be promptly weeded out, in the interest of the service, which the public have a right to expect shall be made as efficient as possible.

Two years ago, Miss Sophie Preston of Saratoga county, N. Y., went as a missionary to China. News has just been received by her friends of her murder there in an uprising of the natives. Miss Preston was 30 years old. She was very much in earnest in her work, and had learned to speak the Chinese language fluently.

MISS SOPHIA HAYDEN, one of the two young women who are studying architecture at the Institute of Technology in Boston, received first mention, i. e., took the highest rank for an original design of a belfry tower, last week. The competition was with about twenty-five young men.

It is reported that Frank Jones, the Democratic Chieftain of New Hampshire, and millionaire beer-brewer, will put a good deal of money, some say $100,000, into the fight against the adoption of the prohibitory constitutional amendment.

THE gentle success in the recent Ogden municipal election is said to have materially enhanced the value of real estate in that city.

It is about as sure as anything in the future can be, that there will be an extra session of the next Congress, after the 4th of March.

ANY proposition to improve the State's property at Carson City seems to be regarded by the Legislature as a local matter.

A Senator Elected. CHARLESTON, W. Va. Feb. 21.—On the second ballot Kennas was elected United States Senator by a strict party vote, amid great applause.

Further Evidence Before the Parnell-Times Commission.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES TO THE GAZETTE.]

What the "Bag" Contained.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Pigott was again on the stand in the Parnell case. He testified that he had interviews with Eugene Davis at Lonsanne in January, 1888. He pretended that he (Pigott) wanted to write a pamphlet on the League, and had decided to embody signed documents in it. Davis declined to furnish the documents, saying the Fenian Brotherhood was bound to Parnell, not to interfere with his plans till after a certain time. Finally, Davis for a thousand pounds, furnished witness with the principal facts, with the understanding that they be written but not published till a certain time. Witness at once wrote out a statement from this information and gave it to Houston. This was the statement read yesterday. Subsequently in Paris, a man named Morris Murphy for 500 pounds, furnished witness with the documents which he had tried to get from Davis. They were in a bag, and consisted of five or six of Egan's, some of Parnell's and some old accounts. Witness read the letters and made memorandums, but did not copy them. Pigott here identified six letters of Egan's, five of Parnell's, including the letter which appeared in the Times, and scraps of accounts produced in Court as the contents of the bag. Witness said that Houston then authorized him to secure the letter. Witness here described at length, these negotiations. Murphy sent him to New York, where he met Breslin, who merely gave him a letter to Murphy in Paris. Returning, Murphy took him into a private room, where five members of the Clan-na-Gael made him swear to never reveal the source from which he obtained the documents.

Parliament in Session.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Parliament assembled to-day. The speech from the throne reviews affairs in Egypt and India, and says consent is granted for a renewal of the conference between Great Britain, Germany and the United States on the Samoan question; declares that the warlike preparations by other European nations render necessary increased precautions by the Government of Great Britain for the safety of her shores and commerce; gives notice that measures will be introduced for the development of the material resources of Ireland, and an amendment of the construction of the tribunals which have jurisdiction over real estate in Ireland; and for the restoration of order, has produced good results; says legislation will be necessary for the execution of the sugar convention; announces that measures will be introduced to remedy the defects in gold coinage, and for the abolition of the Department of Agriculture.

A Reported Battle.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—The latest news from Hayti is furnished by the second officer of the steamer Delta, from Port-de-Paix. The officer states that there is no communication between coastwise towns, but information was received on February 12, from a native mail-carrier, that arrived from St. Marc, of a serious conflict between the Northern and Southern armies three days before, one mile below St. Marc, in which the army under Hippolyte was completely routed and two or three hundred killed. The second officer also states that a rumor had gained considerable currency at Port-de-Paix, that Hippolyte had been killed by a Northern soldier, who received two thousand dollars for the job.

New French Cabinet.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—The papers state that the new Cabinet is almost completed; that Meline will be Prime Minister of Agriculture, DeFreycinet, of War; Bardy, of Marine; Constant, of Interior; Rouvier, of Finance; Sarrien, of Justice; Dubet, of Public Works; Doumergue, of Commerce. Selections for Minister of Foreign Affairs and education were not decided upon.

LATER—Meline has abandoned an attempt to form a Ministry because Robert would have nothing except Ministry of Interior.

Sherman Complimented.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The North German Gazette, Bismarck's organ, reprints the report of the proceedings of the Foreign Committee of the United States Senate in relation to Samoa. The Gazette especially appreciates Sherman's judicious and circumspect attitude, and declares that Bayard contributed in no small degree to appease the public by statements in interviews published in the American newspapers.

Liberl Suit.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 21.—The trial of Governor Larrabee, charged with libel, was begun to-day. The forenoon was consumed in getting a jury.

Congressional Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—House—Randall fired the first gun in the contest between the Ways and Means Committee and the Committee on Appropriations, with a resolution amending the rules to provide that on blank day, the House shall at once proceed in Committee of the Whole to consider the Cowles bill, and shall report it to the House at 4 p. m., and the vote on its passage to be taken forthwith; no dilatory motions to be allowed at any stage of the proceedings. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules.

It is believed the President will affix his signature to the Omnibus territorial bill to-morrow, in honor of Washington's birthday.

Reliable information from Indianapolis makes it safe to say that Thomas of Illinois will not be a member of the Cabinet.

There will be a Democratic House caucus to-night to agree upon a line of policy in respect to revenue reduction.

After several unsuccessful attempts to get particular measures considered, the House went into Committee of the Whole on the Postoffice appropriation bill.

Francis Wharton, a Solicitor of the State Department and a legal writer, died this morning, aged 38.

There was a large attendance of Republican Senators at a caucus this morning to consider the expediency of proceeding further with the debate upon the resolution offered by the Committee on Privileges and Elections, providing for an investigation of elections in the South. It was decided to present a bill after the Sunday (Civil Appropriation bill is disposed of, and press it to a vote. It is expected the Democratic Senators will oppose the adoption of the resolution to the bitter end.

Democratic Caucus—Coal For

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A Democratic House Caucus on tariff reform will be held to-night.

The Secretary of the Navy has contracted with M. P. Pickering & Co., of New York, for the delivery of 2,000 tons of coal at the coaling station at Apia, Samoa, at $12.35 per ton. The coal purchased from C. G. Barber & Co., of New York, at $3.82 per ton on the ship Sachem of Boston will be used in transferring the coal. It is expected the voyage will be made in four months. A vessel is being loaded at New York.

Fatal Dynamite Explosion.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Geo. Smith, aged 60, was instantly killed this morning by an explosion of dynamite. Smith was the foreman of a gang of laborers engaged in digging out cellars at 70th street and the Boulevard. The man entered the tool box, and almost immediately, a terrific explosion took place. Smith was literally blown to atoms. In the tool box, had been stored 150 pounds of dynamite, and in some unaccountable way, Smith's entry into the box caused the stuff to explode. The windows of houses for a quarter of a mile were shattered by the concussion.

From East Africa.

ZANZIBAR, Feb. 21.—The Sultan has forbidden the import and export of arms and ammunition in Zanzibar and Pemba. The British Consul here has notified British subjects, under pain of a heavy penalty, to obey the Sultan's orders. The German missionaries, recently captured by the insurgents, are still held as prisoners. The advance party of Wissmann's expedition has arrived at Zanzibar.

Violent Wind Storm.

GRAND FORKS, Dak., Feb. 21.—This morning, between 4 and 5 o'clock, the worst gale of wind of the season was experienced. It reached a velocity of nearly sixty miles. All over the town the people were expecting their houses to be blown away, but the storm subsided without serious damage. It still continues to blow fearfully on the prairies.

A Hearty Welcome.

ROME, Feb. 21.—The Chicago and All-Americans ball teams were given a hearty welcome. They play on Saturday and Monday, and on Tuesday evening they will start for Florence, thence to Paris. They will return to the United States in April.

Railroad Magnates Indicted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The Grand Jury has found indictments against Ives and Stayner, for grand larceny, in connection with their dealings with the securities of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad.

A Heavy Claim.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 21.—Morris and Joseph Cosenbaum of Chicago have brought suit against C. W. Scofield of St. Charles, G. M. Brush of Winona, and others, for the foreclosure of a mortgage for $75,000 on the rolling mill at St. Charles.

Attacked by a Mob.

DUBLIN, Feb. 21.—A riot occurred at Kilkenny last night on the arrival of James Larrabee Carew, arrested in Scotland on Tuesday. The mob attacked the police and were charged upon. Several were injured.

A Discouraged Tramp.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21.—This morning an unknown man, supposed to be a tramp, laid his head on the track in front of an approaching train and it was almost severed from the body.

A Vigorous Old Man.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Cardinal Newman to-day observed the 84th anniversary of his birth, by celebrating Pontifical high mass. The Cardinals health is improved.

Death of James C. Flood.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 20 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half a dollar a bottle, at S. J. Hodgkinson's drugstore.

Oregon is one of the most productive States in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands produce thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Weibost State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Finlinger.

The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fullness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, flat breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pain in the shoulders and breast. Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic promotes healthy digestion and removes all unhealthy symptoms. Sold by William Finlinger.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Scholars of our Public Schools

Imbued With Patriotism.

If the scholars of Reno's Public Schools do not grow up thoroughly imbued with patriotism, it will not be the fault of their instructors, as no opportunity for impressing it on their minds is ever allowed to pass unheeded. Washington's Birthday being a legal holiday, exercises appropriate to the same have been held in most of the departments of the school to-day, the rooms being tastefully decorated with flags and other patriotic emblems. Conspicuous among these the grand picture of the Father of our Country may be seen, and in one room that of the noble wife Martha Washington is placed beside him. For the past week patriotic songs have sent their echoes through the halls, and the soul-stirring strains of "Hail Columbia" have filled the hearts of both boys and girls with enthusiasm and with one of the noblest feelings of the human mind, love of one's country. As in Reno, so it is in most of the schools of the land, and with patriotic lessons thus taught to our young, we may have little fear of their proving untrue to their country in time of need.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

The lumber for the third story of the Palace Hotel is being delivered.

Mrs. Joseph Marzen Jr., of Truckee, died at Sacramento Tuesday morning.

Messrs. Winters, Bailly, Hymers, Stoddard and others went to Carson this morning.

It is reported that the Reno vendors of Louisiana lottery tickets have decided to quit the business.

Orange trains, making regular passenger time, are passing east regularly over the Central Pacific.

George Campbell, the Essex rancher, has leased his place, and with his mother, has located in Reno.

From the Independent, it is learned that in Elko county, the expense of the recent special election was $2,626.50.

From the Republican, it is learned that the thermometer at Truckee, touched 14° below zero last Sunday morning.

W. R. Chamberlain, of the Riverside Hotel, is filling his new ice house with "hard water" from the Essex Ice Company.

The work on the reports of the several State officers having been completed, State Printer Harlow is reducing his force.

The directors of the State Fair are willing for the grounds of that institution to be used by the University as an experimental station.

This reporter acknowledges the receipt of an invitation to an entertainment to be given this evening at the Old Fellows Hall, by the Young Men's Institute of Reno.

A Pleasant Time.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock this afternoon the University Cadets escorted Mitchell Post G. A. R. from their hall to the University. The evolutions of the Cadets were exceedingly good, and shows what may be accomplished by strict attention and practice. The martial music and brass buttons seemed to put new life into the "old boys" who stepped as nimble as they did twenty-five years ago.

To-morrow the University students will have field-day sports at the Fair grounds, and all anticipate a pleasant time.

Red Tape.

Judge Wells, Chairman of the University Board of Regents, informs a GAZETTE reporter that the cause of the delay of the arms to be furnished by the Federal Government to the University Cadets was that the required bond, which was forwarded to Washington some time ago, was not made out on the prescribed quality of paper. A new bond has been made out, and will be forwarded in the morning, so in a month from this time the boys can expect their guns.

The Market.

The beef market is very decidedly off. Five and a half cents is now the top figure for prime cattle, and they are exceedingly dull at that. Unless the market looks up in the next few days, and the GAZETTE can see no good reason for improvement, the opinion prevails among cattle men that a large number of the 3,000 head now feeding here will find their way back to the range in the Spring.

To-night's Entertainment.

The entertainment to be given this evening by the members of the Young Men's Institute to their friends, in the I. O. O. F. Hall—Truckee Lodge—promises to be a very pleasant affair, as the members have been untiring in their efforts to prepare an enjoyable programme for the evening. A chorus of twelve voices, under the training of Miss Kitty Grippen, will render several songs during the evening.

Home Loving Mother's Child.

At Virginia City yesterday a court case went by the name Tricksey Davenport, was found in bed with her face placed in towels saturated with chloroform; an evident case of suicide. Deceased was 19 years of age and came recently from Washington Territory.

State Prison News.

Last evening J. F. Triplett and H. J. Keith arrived from Elko on their way to the State Prison, with August Richards, sentenced for ten years for an assault with intent to kill, and Ed. Jones and Ed. F. Smith, sentenced to eighteen months each for burglary.

A Good Suggestion.

It has been suggested that on Arbor Day every one in town go to the State Fair grounds and plant a tree. By doing so it won't be many years until the grounds will be the envy of all Nevada, and the expense will be so trifling that it won't be felt by anyone.

Fatally Injured.

The Elko Independent of the 19th inst. says:

Henry Phillips, notice of whose death appears elsewhere, was the son of Joseph Phillips, an old resident and highly respected citizen of Bullion. On last Tuesday evening young Phillips had been handling a colt and was about to take off the back-saddle, or halter, and for some reason or other, when the colt suddenly whirled around and kicked the young man in the face, over the left eye. The accident occurred at their ranch, about five miles from Bullion. The sufferer was taken home, medical assistance was summoned and everything possible was done for his relief; but in spite of all he lingered until last night, when death put an end to his sufferings.

A Dangerous Attack.

The Carson Tribune of the 20th inst. says:

About 12 o'clock last night as Mr. Ogden was on his way home, he saw Mr. W. A. B. Cobb staggering up the steps of the Mint building, in which Mr. Cobb has been employed as a night watchman, and seeing him fall heavily to the ground, assisted in taking the old gentleman into the hall, where he lay until after 3 o'clock A. M., when he was taken to his residence and Dr. Gulon called in. Mr. Cobb was bleeding and otherwise cared for, but is given up by the doctor.

Idleness is a Dangerous Foe in the kidneys. When inactive they speedily fall into disrepair. Those obstinate and fatal maladies, Bright's disease and diabetes, come with terrible certainty upon the inaction of the organs affected. Catarrh of the bladder, cureitis, gravel and stranguery are also to be apprehended from a partial paralysis of the bladder, of which weakness and singleness are the cause. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a fine tonic and promoter of activity for the renal organs, and one which can be relied upon to afford them the requisite stimulus without exciting them—can be taken with the unexcusable alcoholic excess of commerce. A further beneficial effect of the Bitters, by renewing activity of the kidneys, is to enable them to drain from the blood in its passage through them, impurities productive of rheumatism and dropsy. Nervousness, liver and spleen, constipation and dyspepsia are conquered by the Bitters.

TRIALS OF NEWSPAPER MEN.

What Rev. DeWitt Talmage Has to Say on the Subject.

Rev. DeWitt Talmage, who claims to have had some experience in the business thus gives his impressions of it: "One of the greatest trials of the newspaper profession is that its members see more of shame of the world than any other profession. Through every newspaper office, day after day, go all the vanities that want to be puffed; all the revenge that wants to be repeated; all the mistakes that want to be corrected; all the dull speakers that want to be thought eloquent; all the meanness that wants to get its wares noticed gratis in the editorial column in order to save the tax of the advertising columns; all the men who want to be set right that never were right; all the crack-brained philosophers with stories as long as their hair, and all the bodes who come to stop five minutes but stay an hour. Through the editorial and reportorial rooms, all the lies and shames of the world are seen day after day, and the temptation is to believe in neither God, man or woman. It is no surprise to me that in this profession there are some skeptical men. I only wonder in journalists believing in anything."

PERSONAL.

Jacob McKiswick of Long Valley and Walter Cutting of Sierra Valley were in town last evening.

Hon. P. N. Marker came in from Lovelock last evening and returned on this morning's overland.

D. L. Bliss and family last evening returned from a trip to the Atlantic States and were taken to Carson on a special train.

Judge Wells, Chairman of the Board of University Regents, accompanied by his wife, came down from the State Capital last evening.

Harry Cobb arrived this morning from his present home at Grass Valley, Cal., having been summoned to Carson by the dangerous illness of his father, W. A. B. Cobb.

What's in a Name?

A lawyer of Templeton Court was looking over some papers his German client had brought, and every signature had a menace in it as it stood: "A. Schwindler."

"Mr. Schwindler, why don't you write out your first name, or something? I don't want people to think you are a swindler."

"Well, my Got, sir, how much better you think dot looks!" and he wrote: "Adam Schwindler."

Swift Justice.

Smith and Jones, the two burglars sentenced at Elko, were landed at the State Prison to-day, just sixteen days from the time of committing the offense.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of as a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle was miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus wrote W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shely N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moring, Highland, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skillful physician to be very dangerous, and liable to terminate in Pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. M. Thebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membranous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."

HIS DAUGHTER.

My daughter said: "Well, I should smile! She's at it mostly all the while. You'd ought to see her plaques and jars. With roses, dragons, griffins and stars. All floating round, promiscuous like. As if they're 'Union' on a strike. They say she's got the 'artist touch.' What she can't paint up isn't much."

"Play," did you say? Well, now, see here: I spend cool hundreds every year for lessons on the violin."

Of course you know that that's come in. And that piano plays 'em out!

My daughter's arm is midline stout. With paper wrist, and that, you know, looks mighty pretty at the bow.

"Drive!" I believe you. At the beach. Not one style can ever reach. The way she gathers up a line. Above her tandem team is fine.

"Dance!" You just watch a german through. There's never any 'dram' new. That she doesn't get; she dances prime. And gets took out, sir, every time.

"Cook," do you say? Why, bless you, man. The dainty hand that waxes that fan. Ain't never had a rolling pin. I don't want my child to bog in. Where me and my old days ago—'Twas 'way down, pretty 'middle' low. Why, what's my money good for, sir, if it not to spread around for her?

You thought you'd like a wife that knew 'bout keeping house a thing or two! Well, Maude's like that, you see, And I had kind o' hoped you'd mate; For I have always liked your style. Though knowin' you a longish while. But I'm afraid 'twon't be a go. Why, man, you stay right here now. —Aristine Anderson, in Detroit Free Press.

JOE AND CAPTAIN JIM.

"I have collected bills in many ways and in many places; I have begged for payment, bribed for payment, stormed for payment; I have wheedled, implored, flattered and abused; I have walked the heavens above, the earth beneath and the waters under the earth, but I never collected a claim as Joe Smith once did—and I don't believe I'd ever care to."

So said a Georgia merchant as he stretched himself out in a big easy chair in a Broadway hotel, filled as to body by the comfort of an excellent dinner, and as to mind by the consciousness of a good day's work well done. His trip to New York for goods promised well, his stay in the city was nearly ended and he had one or two encouraging letters from the South. Naturally he was cheerful, and just as naturally his talk drifted back to old days, when he was a deal younger than he is now, and when things in Georgia were very different from what they are now.

"Joe came to us from Connecticut five years before the war broke out," said the old gentleman, getting a fresh light for his cigar and a fresh grip on his story at the same time. "We were ex-Northers ourselves, and we were glad to get him. He was a big, sinewy fellow, not pretty, by any means, but about as tough physically as any thing ever turned out by the hands of nature. He was cheerful, and just as naturally his talk drifted back to old days, when he was a deal younger than he is now, and when things in Georgia were very different from what they are now.

He was cheerful, and just as naturally his talk drifted back to old days, when he was a deal younger than he is now, and when things in Georgia were very different from what they are now.

"It was about a year before the war when Joe came in from one of his collecting trips about as empty handed as usual. While it was, of course, a good while before the beginning of the hostilities, we had found that among some of our customers there was growing up a feeling against us, not so much because we were creditors as because we were known to be from the North. We were of course, in the hope that he would prove a good hand at that, but while he was a worker through and through he never got the knack of wheedling people out of their dollars.

"It was about a year before the war when Joe came in from one of his collecting trips about as empty handed as usual. While it was, of course, a good while before the beginning of the hostilities, we had found that among some of our customers there was growing up a feeling against us, not so much because we were creditors as because we were known to be from the North. We were of course, in the hope that he would prove a good hand at that, but while he was a worker through and through he never got the knack of wheedling people out of their dollars.

"Now, as he had never seen the Captain, and didn't realize what a tough customer he was, he tried to persuade Joe not to go. But Joe would, for he seemed to feel that he ought to prove his usefulness in some way. He equipped himself with the biggest knife he could find, a brace of huge horse pistols, a long double-barreled gun and an axe. I noticed that in choosing his tools all he appeared to care for was size. Neither of the pistols were loaded, and I doubt if he knew how to charge the gun. Long before starting he took care to send by one of the Captain's neighbors who chanced to come to town news that he was going to go up to the Creek where the Captain lived, and that about Friday morning there would be a fight between the two men. He had ever seen if the Captain wasn't ready to settle. The Creek was a good two days' ride distant and I couldn't understand why Joe should take such precious care to let his enemy know he was coming.

"Well," Joe explained, "look here. If he hears I'm coming he'll never wait for me. He's too fond of fight for that. He'll simply start out to meet me and I'll get him off his own ground, where I'd have no chance in the world. He will have just about time to get to the tavern at the Forks Thursday night and I guess we'll kinder compose our little difficulty there where he won't have so much show to use his guns."

"It happened that I had business not far from the Forks on Thursday, and by hard riding, managed to reach the tavern late that night. The people about the house were excited, and I soon learned that Joe and the Captain were both on the ground. They had ridden up from opposite directions about the same time an hour earlier, and their armaments, for the Captain's equipment duplicated Joe's, barring the axe, had created a sensation. Every body knew the Captain, of course, but it so happened that nobody had ever seen Joe before. Neither man would talk of his errand, and all the loungers could agree upon was that there were two mighty bad men in the house and that the next day was likely to see some fun somewhere thereabout. Looking into the main room of the inn I saw the champions, each sitting near a glass and surrounded by his weapons. But it was clear in an instant that if there was a fight, the formal they were not unfriendly, and that the Captain had not discovered Joe's identity. In fact, we afterwards learned, he took the collector for a sheriff of one of the lower counties who had a more than local reputation, gained in a desperate battle with a desperado with axes as weapons. I took care not to show myself until the men went to bed, and then imagine my surprise when I learned that the landlord had assigned them not only to the same room, but to the same couch. Luckily I was given a share in the room next theirs; which if they quarrelled, and there were cracks in the partition, so that I had no difficulty in finding out what was going on next door. The moonlight streamed in, showing both men in bed. By the head of each was a stack of deadly weapons, but the room-mates were evidently getting acquainted with their enemies. The Captain was telling some story illustrative of his prowess with a bowie. Then Joe took his turn, and related the gory details of a little affray of honor settled with axes and a funeral.

"I fallers prefers axes, sir," I heard Joe say. "They never misses. Now, you can hit a man with a knife, but a button may turn the point, but axes, sir, did you ever hear of a button turning an axe, sir?"

"But the Captain was ready with an incident in which the knife figured most prominently, and then branched off into an account of a journey of his into Louisiana, which had been attended with considerable miscellaneous slaughter. Joe countered with a tale of an enjoyable visit he had had to California, where he had in one day shot a gambler, gouged the eyes out of a miner and broken the neck of a tenderfoot with a blow. Of course the Captain responded in kind, but he was perceptibly weakening, and the difficulty he described had led to but two homicides. Joe was beginning another novelette which promised well, when he interrupted himself by suddenly rising up in bed, pulling his trousers from a chair, and fumbling in one of the pockets. Then he began to bewail his luck. It was his invariable custom, he explained, to dig out the bullets from the bodies of such victims as he shot and keep them in a certain pocket. This should now contain eight, but as he could find only seven one had evidently been lost. However, he was somewhat comforted by the remembrance that the morrow promised to replace his treasure, as he had promised some mercantile friends of his to either collect a little debt or make their claim one against an estate.

"What!" gasped the Captain, "sit you Sheriff?"

"No, sir," quoth Joe, "I'm going to call on a party, sir, they call Captain Jim. They say he loves sport, sir, and if you'll come with me you'll see some fun. By the way, if you know this 'ere Captain, just tell me what kind a fellow he is. He'll tell you 'I did not hear the reply, for just then the landlord rushed in to tell me that my horse had hurt himself in the barn and was in a bad way. Half an hour passed before I returned, and then all was quiet in the next room, while both its occupants were apparently sleeping. I awoke the next morning to find Joe by my bedside, with the broadest of smiles on his face."

"But the Captain?" I asked.

"Oh, he's all right. He slipped out of bed about four o'clock this morning, woke the landlord to tell him that he had business in the next county, and then departed, after leaving this envelope for me."

"Joe handed me the envelope. It contained money enough to meet our claim in full. The next time I saw the Captain he called at our store. Joe was then in South Carolina, we told him as he bought a bill of goods."

"But he's coming back?" the visitor asked in a thoughtful way.

"Oh, yes, he'll be here next month."

"I may as well pay cash," the Captain remarked, and as he did so he drew me aside and whispered in my ear: "There's one thing bothering my memory lately. Was it six or seven men he killed in California?" —N. Y. Times.

Pleasure is a shadow, but knowledge is ecstatic in enjoyment, perennial in fame, unlimited in space, and infinite in duration. In the performance of its great offices it fears no danger, spares no expense, looks into the volcano, dives into the ocean, perforates the earth, wings its flight into the ether, enriches the globe, explores sea and land, contemplates the distant, examines the minute, comprehends the great, ascends to the sublime—no place too remote for its grasp, no sphere too exalted for its reach.

A fire occurred in a Chicago picture gallery the other day, and scorched several paintings. There was no loss. On the contrary, several hundred dollars' worth of pictures, which were so badly smoked and defaced that the subjects could not be distinguished, were subsequently sold for "oil masters," and brought $75,000.
